The quote "Be the change that you wish to see in the world" by Mahatma Gandhi actually holds a really deep meaning. It means that instead of saying things like "I wish there were more nice people in the world" you should be the one working to make a change. The world will not get better by itself. My personal opinion on this topic is that if people only cry about how cruel the world we live in is, then it will stay the same. People really need to learn how to stand by what they say.

One of the reasons why I think this way is the fact that without changing yourself and putting in at least a bit of initiative, how will you help to change anything? As an example, people always say that they care about the turtles choking on plastic in the ocean, yet they continue throwing it in there.

The other reason is that it's common knowledge that nothing even changes on its own. It all needs a little push. The climate change wouldn't happen without factories. We are to blame.

In conclusion, I can say one thing to something about yourself to change the world. Not doing anything and whining makes you look dumb.

Our world is changing everyday even because of a little thing. People are very interesting because they can change the world as they want. You also can do something that will change the world. But if you want ~~you~~ to change the world you need to change yourself first.

I agree with this, because human can do a lot for others. For example, if you will be nice and treat everyone with kindness, people will be kind to you. And it will become a circle. You treat someone with kindness and then someone will be nice to somebody, because of that our world become a little ^{more} comfortable.

Secondly, if you want to change the world you can find out something new. You can discover many new things and become a great scientist, you can be a lawyer and help people to become better and stand to right way or you can just be a teacher who will be teach new generation and tell them what ~~good or bad~~ is bad. Because of that you can change yourself and people around you.

If you will do this you become a beautiful example for others and then maybe will want to become like you. You should read a lot of books, teach something new and just find new friends if you want to become the best version of yourself.

However, it's depends on human personality and ability to do some thing. If you want to change the world you need to change ^{your} self first.

The phrase "be the change that you wish to see in the world" by Mahatma Gandhi means "make yourself better as a great change which you would like to see in this world".

As for me, I actually agree with this statement. The first reason why I agree is very simple. Everyone wants to be the best version of himself. The second reason is our possibility to change the world. Only if we change ourselves, & we will change the world.

I want to give two examples to illustrate my reasons. Firstly, Peter the Great could change Russia by making himself gentler, smarter and more knowledgeable. Secondly, I could change my state of mind and it has effected on my relations in my family. I have changed a little world of my family to the right way.

To sum up, I consider the statement "be the change that you wish to see in the world" enough complicated. This phrase can also change men's minds and the world too. I will always remember these words by Mahatma Gandhi as they are the true and can help me in difficult time. I will recommend to read or to listen to these words of wisdom to my friends and relatives.

Gandhi said that you should be the change ~~to~~ of that you wish to see in the world. Some people agree with him others don't agree. Regardless of your opinion you should think about problems of the whole world.

I think that we should do something to change the world. Only one person can do ~~a~~ lot of amazing things. For example, ~~if~~ if you organize a group to clean a river from trash it will help a huge amount of people. If you want to change the world you should start from yourself. For example don't leave trash on the streets.

I remember when my best friend once made a great thing. He and his friends ^{too} went to the river and cleaned it's bank. When they came again later there were a lot of adults and teenagers.

For me it is necessary ~~not~~ to leave ~~the~~ trash on the streets. I always feel sad when I see trash on the streets. I believe that it is important to keep our streets cleaned and you ~~start~~ should start to change the world from yourself.

In conclusion I would like to say that we ~~have~~ only one life ~~and~~ we ~~should~~ should start to change ~~ourselt~~ now. In every human will change himself the world will be much better.

It is not a secret that sometimes people feel that the world is unfair. They do not want to miss various opportunities to do something or to get something due to their low income or some personal traits that are considered to be bad for society. But if they do not like their life they need to change themselves.

Mahatma Gandhi once said: "Be the change that you wish to see in the world." I agree with this statement. People should change themselves to make their life better. Moreover, when other people will see how good somebody's life is, because this person has changed it for the better, they will try to be better people too. ~~It will~~ It will influence all the world.

I want to analyse the lifestory of Mahatma Gandhi. Some years ago ^{some} people in America were treated badly just because their skin was black. Mahatma Gandhi was a part of this group of people. He found courage to fight for the rights of such people, and ~~when other black people~~ his actions encourage other black people to do the same. At the end they ^{achieved} their goals. This example explains my point of view.

In conclusion I want to say that ~~it is~~ important for people to change their personal traits that make their life unpleasant for them. If ^{they} people find strength to change themselves, they will be able to change the world.
